Then the tooth, one of the teeth, holding the bridge decided. So my dentist removed it then added another bridge over two places. Now on my count that was four teeth destroyed. Last year one of the other teeth holding up the bridge went. My wonderful dentist, again wanted to add another bridge. I was about to go for it. Even tho it upset me I would lose another good tooth. We were watching T.V. one night an saw Dr Sheldon. He said he was doing implants. Some thirty years prior. I had gone to him for gum problems. My husband an I both thought I should give him a call. I did.

To my surprise, he kind of remembered me. Probably from my previous records. All I can say. He is just as nice as he was thirty years ago.
